Horizon Europe Co-design 2021-2024

Fields marked with * are mandatory.

With a proposed budget of 100 billion euro from 2021 to 2027, the Horizon Europe framework programme represents the largest collaborative multinational research and innovation investment in Europe and is open to participants worldwide.

The European Parliament and the Council, the co-legislators have provisionally agreed on the Horizon Europe legislative package. Based on the agreement, a Strategic Plan will put forward the targeted impacts for the investment in research and innovation and the priorities for the first four years of implementation of Horizon Europe.

We invite you to contribute to co-designing and help shaping the future research and innovation investment by responding to this questionnaire. It takes approximately 20 minutes to respond. The results will inform the work on the first Strategic Plan of Horizon Europe. You can further engage by participating in the European Research and Innovation Days (https://ec.europa.eu/info/research-and-innovation/events/upcoming-events/european-research-and-innovation-days\_en) on 24-25-26 September 2019 in Brussels.

It is recommended that prior to responding to the questions, you read the attached document: Orientations (https://ec.europa.eu/research/pdf/horizon-europe/ec\_rtd\_orientations-towards-the-strategic-planning.pdf) towards the first Strategic Plan implementing the research and innovation framework programme Horizon Europe.

Section C - What kind of impacts should Horizon Europe target?

A strategic and targeted approach to European research and innovation investment is needed to maximise the impact of Horizon Europe in line with the sustainable, fair and prosperous future we want.

Protective Europe

Policy objectives: While the establishment of the European Union in itself has brought unprecedented peace and prosperity, there is a continued need to address terrorism and security issues, which are among the top concerns for European citizens, and to enhance internal security within and across the European Union, and along its external borders. The overarching ambition of secure societies is also reflected in Sustainable Development Goal 16 – Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions.

There are a number of EU policy responses to current security challenges. As regards disasters, these include the Union Civil Protection Mechanism, the EU Adaptation Strategy and the Sendai Framework for Disaster Risk Reduction (2015-2030). (https://ec.europa.eu/echo/partnerships/relations/european-and-international-cooperation/sendai-framework-disaster-risk-reduction\_en) In the framework of the European Agenda on Security (https://ec.europa.eu/home-affairs/what-we-do/policies/european-agenda-security\_en) and as part of the development of a Security Union, the EU has adopted policies and instruments on integrated border management, on protection of public spaces, on security (including cybersecurity) of infrastructure, and on fighting crime, including cybercrime and terrorism. An EU Maritime Security Action Plan addresses relevant challenges. Policies have also been put in place to ensure cybersecurity, such as the Directive on security of network and information systems (NIS Directive) and the EU Cybersecurity Act, and online privacy.

If you want more information, in particular on cluster 3 (<https://ec.europa.eu/research/pdf/horizon-europe/annex-3.pdf>) (civil security for society), please follow the link to the specific annex.

5. In your view, how relevant is it for Horizon Europe to deliver on the following impacts for a "Protective Europe"?

Competitive Europe

Policy objectives: Research and innovation plays a central role in enhancing competitiveness throughout Europe and Europe has the potential to become a world leader in the ongoing and foreseeable sustainable and digital transitions. However, there is a need to prepare our technological and industrial future in a more strategic way, including incentivising and steering innovation and facilitating the uptake of new technologies and innovative solutions. New developments within mobility and transport, including automated and connected mobility, will also require new solutions, still to be developed and implemented. Furthermore, the need to promote inclusive and sustainable economic growth and industrialization and to foster innovation is reflected in Sustainable Development Goals 8 - Decent Work and Economic Growth, and 9 - Industry, Innovation and Infrastructure.

The renewed EU Industrial Policy Strategy (https://ec.europa.eu/commission/news/new-industrial-policy-strategy-2017-sep-18\_en) shows how the EU must tackle missing segments in key strategic value chains if its industry is to stay competitive and become sustainable at the same time. This requires a stepping up of the level and quality of the EU research and innovation effort with focus on the key parts of strategic technology supply chains: from secure and sustainable supply of raw materials, maximising the value of its resources and materials, to batteries, low-carbon industry, space critical components smart connectivity platforms. At the same time, breakthrough technologies and solutions are necessary to bring about a deep decarbonisation of EU industries by 2050, and foster a circular economy. Future factories will be carbon-neutral, resource efficient and fully integrated in the circular economy. The zero-carbon and circularity ambitions should reinforce one another.

If you want more information, in particular on cluster 4 (<https://ec.europa.eu/research/pdf/horizon-europe/annex-4.pdf>) (digital, industry and space), please follow the link to the specific annex.

Please, remember that Investment in research and innovation regarding health (<https://ec.europa.eu/research/pdf/horizon-europe/annex-1.pdf>) (Cluster 1) will support an innovative, sustainable and globally competitive health-related industry, while investments in research and innovation for mobility and transport (<https://ec.europa.eu/research/pdf/horizon-europe/annex-5.pdf>) (Cluster 5) will contribute to developing low-carbon and competitive transport solutions across all modes

Fair Europe

Policy objectives: The promotion of social cohesion and inclusiveness and the health and well-being of its people are central aims of the European Union's policies and programmes. With the European Pillar of Social Rights, (https://ec.europa.eu/commission/priorities/deeper-and-fairer-economic-and-monetary-union/european-pillar-social-rights\_en) the EU set the direction towards a fairer, inclusive and more social Europe for all citizens based on a European social model that is fit for the challenges of the 21st century. To continue delivering on this agenda and to safeguard shared values and mutual trust, it is important to support Member States in addressing social challenges and inequalities, e.g. related to health or education, within and across their territories and regions. Further efforts should equally be devoted to make high-quality health care both available and affordable for citizens as well as to render health care systems more accessible and sustainable, including through the digital transformation of health and care.

These aims are also reflected in Sustainable Development Goals: 1 – No Poverty; 3 – Good Health and Well-being; 4 – Quality Education; 5 – Gender Equality; 6 – Clean Water and Sanitation, 8 – Decent Work and Economic Growth; 10 – Reduced Inequalities; 11 – Sustainable Cities and Communities, and 16 – Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions.

If you want more information, in particular on cluster 1 (<https://ec.europa.eu/research/pdf/horizon-europe/annex-1.pdf>) (health) and cluster 2 (<https://ec.europa.eu/research/pdf/horizon-europe/annex-2.pdf>) (culture, creativity and inclusive society), please follow the links to the specific annexes.

Please remember that Investments in research and innovation concerning digital, industry and space (<https://ec.europa.eu/research/pdf/horizon-europe/annex-4.pdf>) (Cluster 4) will also aim to contribute to create more appealing and creative jobs in Europe and increased inclusiveness in the development of technologies and the acquisition of skills to put the new technologies, for instance the digital area or the area of advanced manufacturing, to use.

Sustainable Europe

Policy objectives: In order to achieve the objectives of the Sustainable Development Goals, significant changes are needed to modernise our economy towards sustainable consumption and production patterns, reinforce efforts to fight climate change and reverse environmental degradation, promote biodiversity and the transition to a circular economy respecting planetary boundaries. This includes maximising the potential of the Energy Union, including promoting a cleaner and more reliable energy supply to households and businesses.

These objectives also are reflected in especially Sustainable Development Goals 2 – Zero Hunger, 6 - Clean Water, 7 - Affordable and Clean Energy, 11 - Sustainable Cities and Communities, 12 - Responsible Consumption and Production, 13 - Climate Action, 14 - Life below Water and 15 - Life on Land.

In the areas of climate change and planetary boundaries, the EU is at the forefront of implementing the Paris Agreement. This EU has already put in place the legislation required to reach the Nationally Determined Contribution for 2030, and the Commission adopted a vision for achieving a climate neutral economy by 2050. (https://ec.europa.eu/clima/policies/strategies/2050\_en) The long-term strategy outlines a vision of the technological, economic and societal transformations required to achieve climate neutrality and to ensure a socially fair transition that does not leave any EU citizens or regions behind. It recognises that a forward-looking research and innovation strategy should be guided by zero-carbon solutions that have the potential to be deployed by 2050, and that climate action is at the heart of Horizon Europe, with the intention of devoting 35% of the budget to climate objectives. In January 2019, the Commission adopted the reflection paper 'Towards a Sustainable Europe by 2030

(https://ec.europa.eu/commission/publications/reflection-paper-towards-sustainable-europe-2030\_en), with the intention of launching a forward-looking debate among citizens, Member States and other stakeholders on how to best progress with the Sustainable Development Goals.

Influential Europe

Policy objectives: In an increasingly fractured and multipolar world, the EU will need to strengthen its position in order to guarantee its prosperity and competitive position. Through EU international cooperation in research and innovation, the EU can shape new technologies and solutions to global challenges, set world standards and disseminate its values.

Innovation value chains and knowledge production are increasingly global and previously emerging economies have become major players in the research and innovation area. The EU is well placed to tap into this new wealth of research excellence and resources across the world. It has a long history of international cooperation within research and innovation, lies at the centre of most international collaborative networks and offers a general openness to international participation. The EU needs to build upon and further intensify this to fully benefit from the new global opportunities. Activities should promote and integrate international cooperation based on mutual benefits, EU interests, international commitments and, where appropriate, reciprocity, with each area developing its strategy for engaging internationally, in coherence with the overall EU strategy for international cooperation in research and innovation.

The Sustainable Development Goals are increasingly providing a reference point to prioritise and reshape research and innovation policy agendas, and international programmatic coordination through multilateral initiatives are more and more used as a means for global cooperation in areas such as climate change, biodiversity, clean energy, sustainable cities, infectious diseases, seas and oceans, sustainable agriculture and food and nutrition security. The expanding scope and interconnectivity of these challenges require that the EU strengthens its role in multilateral and bilateral setups while also asserting more pro-actively EU values and interests, including in strategic alliances and networks such as global environmental conventions on climate, desertification and biodiversity, the Belmont Forum, the Group on Earth Observations, the Mission Innovation initiative, the International Bioeconomy Forum, and a range of Global Health initiatives.

Increased attention is being paid to achieve sovereignty in strategic technology areas and critical infrastructures. Though no jurisdiction is fully autonomous in terms of design, development and production of enabling technology, in a world of globe-spanning value chains the EU should now do more to strengthen alliances with key actors in a strategic and principled way so as to ensure its competitive position.

International cooperation in research and innovation is indispensable for effectively tackling global challenges and for implementing global commitments. Collaborating with the world's top researchers, innovators and knowledge-intensive companies should strengthen the EU's research and innovation excellence and attractiveness, increase the quality of research and innovation results, and reinforce the economic and industrial competitiveness of the Union. Increasing international engagement should also lead to an enhanced EU role in setting the research and innovation policy agendas and shaping global research and innovation systems and innovative solutions for the global challenges.

Engaging internationally should allow for a better assessment of challenges in their global, regional or local context, produce more targeted results, expand and diversify the global flow of knowledge and increase innovation capacity, contributing also to more efficient EU responses in key areas of political dialogue. The growing role of science diplomacy as a key element of EU external action should also foster mutual understanding, stability and progress.

AMBITIOUS CLIMATE ACTION AND A JUST ENERGY TRANSITION

To meet the goals of the Paris Agreement the European Union needs to achieve net zero greenhouse gas emissions by 2040. EU R&I policies must support the decarbonization of all sectors by developing zero-carbon processes and products, to establish a genuine circular economy and foster a transition towards sustainable food systems.

Faced with the existential threat of devastating climate change impacts, we expect the EU's Research and Innovation policies and funding, the Horizon Europe framework programme, to prioritise urgent action addressing the climate emergency with the aim of implementing the Paris Agreement's ambition to limit temperature rise to 1.5°C. This will in particular need a substantial increase of climate action in the short term with the aim of reducing greenhouse gas emissions to almost zero and substantially increasing the removal capacity of natural sinks within a few decades.

In particular Horizon Europe should be integral part of an EU Climate Urgency Plan that sets the overall level of climate ambition, ensures the transition towards climate neutrality to take place in all sectors and provides necessary financial and other horizontal policies and measures.

In particular Horizon Europe should contribute to structural economic transformation with the aim to:

- reduce all greenhouse gas emissions by at least 65% by 2030, as compared to 1990;
- reduce greenhouse gas emissions and increase natural carbon removals so as to achieve climate neutrality by 2040;
- phase out all coal power plants by 2030;
- source 100% all of all energy from renewable sources;
- phase out the use of all fossil fuels by 2040;
- earmark 40% of the next EU budget for climate action;

Climate change is a global challenge that not all countries have the capacity to respond to on their own. The EU should use the opportunity of further research into climate neutrality to learn from and to share best practices and experiences with developing countries and EU allies. This will also serve to strengthen EU climate diplomacy.

Thus the Horizon Europe's climate action mainstreaming target should be increased from currently 35% to 50% to provide new innovative technologies, products and businesses the means to scale up and deliver the economywide decarbonisation, and to deliver the maximum societal benefits of this transition. In addition, it is important to establish a balanced financing instrument mix, split evenly between private and public sector R&I investment. Whereas some R&I investments require public sector grants, it is equally important to shift private sector R&I strategies towards climate neutrality, and to ensure coordination of the various funding streams. The sectoral decarbonisation objective should be mainstreamed throughout all 3 pillars of the Horizon Europe programme, its clusters, missions and partnerships. The upcoming strategic planning process, and with it the strategic orientations for the designing of research and innovation support, needs to ensure a coordinated and integrated approach for the sectoral decarbonisation of the industry, transport, buildings, agriculture and forestry, including a needs assessments and tailor-shaped to its different Technology Readiness Levels (TRL) and market accessibility.

This should lead to a rapid increase of the readiness and deployment of the next generation of zero-carbon technologies, innovative and enabling business models and customer engagement in all sectors of the economy that use or produce energy: electricity, transportation, manufacturing, materials and construction, and agriculture.

Focus of the First Strategic Plan should thus be:

- Renewable energy generation, ensuring sustainable and ethical raw material sourcing and usage, and accordant electricity and other energy infrastructure;
- Electricity storage, smart distribution and management;
- Citizen empowerment and engagement in decentralised and democratic energy systems;
- Energy efficiency technologies and applications in public infrastructure, buildings and housing;
- Efficient zero-emission transportation and transport systems, including for shipping and aviation, the promotion of zero carbon public transport;
- Research into climate-resilient, diversified and sustainable farming systems based on agroecological innovation
- Sustainability of biomass, biomaterials and the bio-economy;
- Sustainable consumption and lifestyle -including supporting social innovation to reduce consumption;
- Resource and materials efficient circular production and consumption processes, low-tech 'cradle to cradle' technologies;
- The net-zero emission heavy industry transition, innovation in industrial process and their digitalisation;
- Exclusion of fossil fuels; fit carbon capture and storage or use (CCS/U) only, and to a limited extend, to industrial processes where zero-emission technologies are not feasible.
